The first Methodist congregation in Dorchester County, Maryland was organized in 1781 and met on Taylor's Island in the home of Thomas Wellen. Bishop Francis Asbury visited the group in 1784. Moses and Elizabeth LeCompte donated half an acre of land on September 15, 1787 on which a chapel that became known as "Bethlehem Chapel" was built. Reverend Freeborn Garrettson wrote in his journal about preaching in the new chapel. The church trustees at the time were Benjamin Keen Jr., William Geoghegan, Thomas Hooper, John Ashcom Travers, Peter Harrington, John Aaron, John Geoghegan, John Robson and Isaac Creighton. A new brick church was built in 1857 across the street from the original chapel. This building, commonly referred to as the "Old Brick Church," was added to the National Registry of Historic Places in April 1975. It is listed as the best example of mid-19th century architecture in a Methodist chapel in Dorchester County.

In 1860 the Peninsula (Methodist) Conference split over the issue of slavery. On May 6, 1860 Bethlehem was the first Methodist Episcopal Church in Dorchester County to split from the main church and join the M.E. Church South. Some of the 16 charges on the Eastern Shore joined the Baltimore Conference. The others joined the Virginia Conference and became part of the M.E. Church South. The two divisions of the Methodist Episcopal Church merged in 1939. More can be learned about the Methodist Church and its split into two divisions by reading Garden of Methodism by E.C. Hallman.

A collection of materials pertaining to Bethlehem Church is archived at the Edward H. Nabb Research Center. While the collection includes multiple ledgers containing marriage and baptism records ranging in date from 1885 to 1977; the majority of the activities are occurred during the late 1800s and early 1900s; marriages and baptisms from the ledgers are included in this abstract. It is not known if earlier records survive.

Family names found within this record include Dunnock, Geoghegan, Lecompte, Newcomb, Linthicum, Horseman, Sard, Woolford, Wroten, Burton, Nabb, Windsor, Neild, Brannock, and Mowbray. While most of the records are legible, the spelling of names may vary greatly throughout these records. We have not attempted to correct or update the spelling, so when using this list, be sure to consider all possible spelling variations of the name which you are seeking.

[Sept 17, 1883, Report of Levi D. Travers, Local Deacon.

As a local preacher, the sphere of my labors is very limited, being confined, almost entirely to my island home. I have preached, with the present conference year 16 times, conducted 2 funerals, baptized 6 infants and 1 adult, performed the marriage ceremony 5 times, visited the sick and dying, administered, as best I could the consolations of Religion. During the past summer I acted as Superintendent of a flourishing Sabbath School. This service has been rendered by me, with somewhat infirm health, and in the midst of many worldly cares. I have been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for more than 40 years and a local preacher for more than 30 years. I have preached, within that time more than 500 sermons, baptized 175 children and adults and married 75 couples. I have bestowed much labor in the Sabbath School and in behalf of the material welfare of the church, especially for the Methodist Episcopal Church society to which I feel devotedly attached. I feel I have done but little in my life for the cause of God and humanity; but thank God I have been permitted to work in His Vineyard. September 14th 1883. Levi D. Travers, Local Deacon. P. 15
